

Career Goals: My intense desire to be a physician stems from my passion to serve the underserved, to provide for those in need, and to reduce inequalities that exist. The bible serves as my guide.

“For I was hungry and you gave Me food; I was thirsty and you gave Me drink; I was a stranger and you took Me in; I was naked and you clothed Me; I was sick and you visited Me; I was in prison and you came to Me.” — Matthew 25:35

“For I do not mean that others should be eased and you burdened; but by an equality that now at this time your abundance may supply their lack, that their abundance also may supply your lack— that there may be equality.” —Corinthians 8:13—14

My career goal is to work as a physician in an inner-city community, empowering, inspiring, evaluating, and improving the health of underserved populations, through research, service, advocacy, and high quality, compassionate healthcare. In order to be most effective, I believe that services must be multi-faceted, coordinated, convenient, and available to all, independent of ability to pay. I therefore hope to work as part of a community health, research, and education center that would provide health and preventive health services, health education and intervention, job assistance, and seamless connections to social services.
