These days, it's easy to become discouraged and disengage. Dr. Diamond knows first-hand how to get things done when times are tough and resources are scarce. He was the director of the medical triage unit at the New Orleans Convention Center after Hurricane Katrina and he has responded to some of the most devastating international disasters of our time. His jaw-dropping stories will show you the power of mindset and equip you to thrive.

The EveryONE Project: Advancing Health Equity in Every Community

Speaker: AAFP Project Champion and Gary LeRoy, MD, AAFP Board Director

Social determinants of health (SDOH) such as economic stability, environment, education, and social connections can lead to significant health care inequities. Because family physicians work with people affected by SDOH every day, the AAFP developed a comprehensive package of tools called The EveryONE Project for physicians to better address these factors. Using case studies and implementation strategies, Danielle Jones and Dr. Gary LeRoy will share how physicians can use these tools in everyday practice to achieve optimal health for everyone.

Lastly, we will share tips on how best to provide culturally humble and structurally competent care to this community.
