Contributing Guidelines

- General interest articles should be approximately 600 words in length. Clinical articles may be as long as 1,000 words.
- The content should relate to the interests of family physicians, family medicine residents, and medical students with an interest in family medicine. If you are uncertain about the suitability of your material, please review past issues online at www.ohioafp.org/news-publications/the-ohio-family-physician, or contact Lauren Heberling by emailing lheberling@ohioafp.org or calling 800.742.7327.
- Articles on controversial topics will be judged individually on their merits. The editor reserves the right to accept or reject individual contributions in the interest of the readership, space availability, and good taste. The editor also may revise copy with these considerations in mind.
- When composing your article, please write in plain English and avoid jargon, complexity, and passive sentences as much as possible. Organize your thoughts logically and simply.
- Review your material to perfect both the content and word choice. Prior to submitting the article, it is helpful to have someone else review your copy for readability.
- Please proofread your final copy to ensure accuracy.
- When submitting your article, please include your contact information (full name, mailing address, email address, and phone number).
